Grand Blanc businessman hosting Detroit investment event featured by CNBC

David Kudla

GRAND BLANC, MI - David Kudla is anticipating a crowd of professionals, students and professors to teach and talk investments in Detroit on Thursday and Friday.

Kudla, CEO of Mainstay Capital Management, LLC. of Grand Blanc, is hosting the ENGAGE International Investment Education Symposium at Cobo Center and said he's anticipating between 1,500 and 2,500 people attending with Wayne State University and Mainstay Capital putting on the event.

"I come from a family of educators," he said. "I'm big on experiential learning."

The event, which will bring participants from the U.S., Canada and Europe, will talk about several subjects regarding the investment world, including one focusing on the Federal Reserve, another giving a Detroit economic development perspective and one focusing on domestic and international markets.

CNBC will broadcast live during both days of the event as well.
